Student of the Month: Dylan

Teacher: Ms. Winkler / Mrs. Hauser

My name is Dylan. I am in Ms. Winkler's and Mrs.

Mrs. Hauser's class. I think I am principled because I am fair to my friends. I am responsible because I work hard in school and do all of my work.

Somebody who is principled likes to set goals.

My goal is to improve my reading. I can achieve this by reading every day at home.

This is why I was chosen to be student of the month.

November

Principled

I am honest, fair, respectful, and responsible.

My name is Kenneth [REDACTED]

I am a 3rd grade student in

Mrs. Strachan's class. This month's student of the month character trait is

PRINCIPLED. I think that I am principled because I listen in class and I do my assignment the best I can. I also respect my teachers and classmates. One future goal I have for myself is to pass the third grade with good grades.

4th GRADE

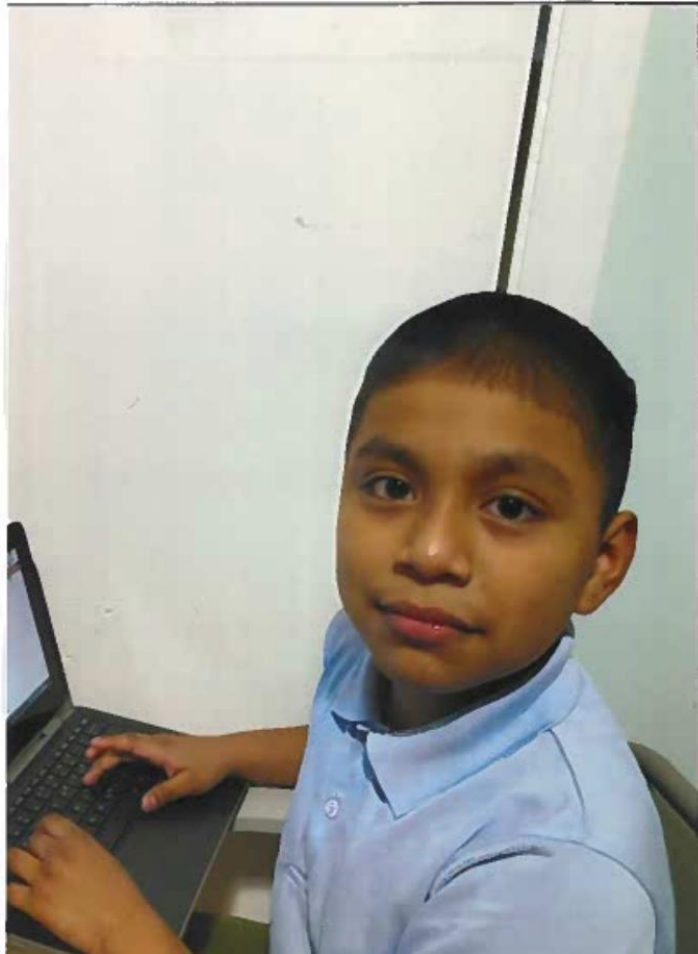

November

Principled

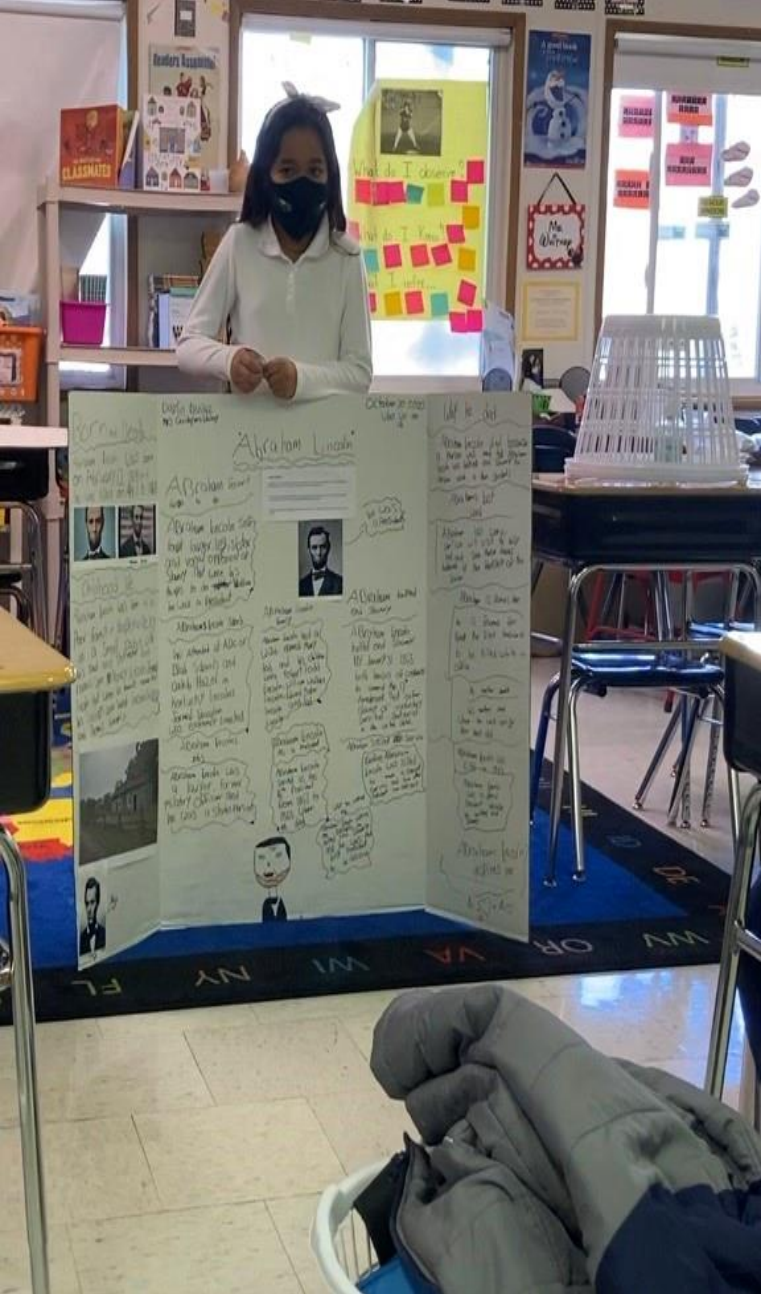

I am honest, fair, respectful, and responsible.

Student of the Month: James

Teacher: Mrs. Capdevila

Hi, I am James Antonio. Something that I am thankful for is for my own learning. The reason why I am thankful for my own learning is because I learn new things like finding the meaning of an unknown word analyzing historical texts and how to add to subtract numbers to solve a problem. That is why I am thankful for my own learning.

MRS. GUIDO AND MRS. WHITNEY

Hello, my name is Daylin I . I am 9 years old and I am in the fourth grade. My teachers are Mrs. Guido and Mrs. Whitney. I have been selected as the student of the month for November for showing the character trait of principled.

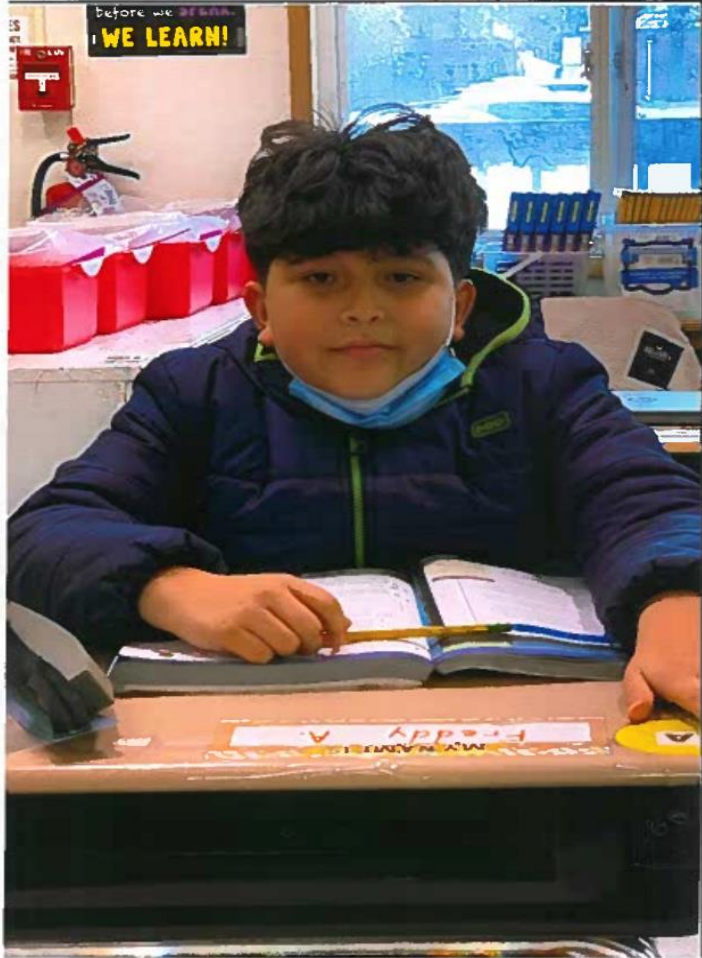

I am principled because I always follow rules. When my teachers assign us work to do, I always get started right away. I listen carefully each day to my teacher's instructions so I can do my best work. In class I always complete my classwork and begin working on my next task right away! I also follow the rules with online learning. I am always on zoom on time and I always participate! I listen to my teachers carefully and show them I am ready to learn.

In do the right thing no matter who is watching!

November

Principled

I am honest, fair, respectful, and responsible

Student: Freddy

Teacher: Mrs. Johnson

My name is Freddy Andrade and I am a 4th grade student in Mrs. Johnson's class. I am so surprised about being chosen as student of the month.

My favorite subject is Math because there are many problems with addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division that I like to work on.

In my free time, I like to race with other kids to see who the fastest runner is going to be. I also like to use building blocks to play with my little sister. It is so much fun.

To be principled means that you are honest and fair. To me, it is important to be principled at home and at school because it would make people trust me and they might want me to help them out in a situation that has to be solved.

November

Mrs. Donnangelo

Student of The Month

I am Angely Barahona Flores and I am a fifth-grade student in Mrs. Donnangelo's class. This month's learner profile focus is PRINCIPLED. I display the character trait of being principled because I follow the rules, instructions and I do all of my work in school. It is the right thing to do! Another example, is that at home I sometimes notice that my mom needs help. I help her do chores and other things without her asking me to help. I also try to follow the rules at home. When I go to college, I want study to become a doctor who helps little boys and girls.

Student of the Month: Adrianna [redacted]

Teacher: Mrs. Lagnese Ms. Vogel Fang

Hello my name is Adrianna Jimenez. I'm going to tell you why I'm student of the month for principled.

One reason for why I'm student of the month is because I help my friends with their work if they need it and they help me too. I'm also responsible. I do all of classwork and homework. The last reason for why I'm principled is I try my best with every subject.

This is why I'm student of month for principled.

Student of the Month: Ashley

Teacher: MS. Acosta

My name is Ashley Canales. I was voted for the IB character trait, principled. I am principled because I am trustworthy, and I am very honest. Another reason I am principled is because if I have any responsibilities, I put my best foot forward and do whatever task it is I need to do. In addition, if I am doing any type of group work, I always make sure, the whole group is on task. I am a leader that keeps everyone around me principled, especially when they may not be acting that way. These are some reasons why I am principled! My future goals are to be a doctor or a lawyer. I want to graduate collage. I want to buy my own house at 24 or maybe even earlier. I want to buy a car and I would like to buy my parents a house so they can live in a new house! I have these goals because I just want to be very successful in life and help my loved ones. These are some of my goals and why I am principled!

Amy
Ms. Lopez
Principled

November 2020
Student of the Month-

I was chosen to be student of the month for November for being principled. To be principled means you are responsible, honest, focused on your work, to be on point, and with a strong sense of fairness. How I was principled was that when I was at home and I wanted to make sure that I submitted my work, I would email my teacher, Ms. Lopez and she would email me back. I would also finish all my work on time. I listen to the instructions. I am principled on online school because I come to every session. I have my camera on when I can. I participate. I have my mic muted and my volume up. I am focused on my work and my teacher. I am also principled because I am honest. Whenever I can't make it to a class session, I email my teacher saying I can't come but I still get my homework done. One goal that I have is to always try to be principled even when I am not at school or when I'm older and finish school I'll still be principled. This shows what principled means, how I'm principled, and one of my goals.
