Why: Vaping by teenagers has reached epidemic levels, threatening to hook a new generation of young people on nicotine. As the number of teenagers who vape continues to rise, new vaping health risks are emerging. Most recently, a vaping-related health crisis has resulted in hundreds of respiratory illnesses across the United States and at least six deaths, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC).

This event will offer a power program addressing the dangers associated with vaping and an abundance of helpful information at a resource fair. Patrick J. Ryder – Commissioner of Police – Nassau County Police Department will be the keynote speaker, followed by a panel discussion and Q & A led by Eric Caballero, Director PE, Health, Athletics – BMCHSD. Panelists will include:

Mary Cataletto, MD, FAAP, FCCP: Pediatric Pulmonologist - NYU Langone
Michael Harrington - Assistant Superintendent - BMCHSD
