We will actively involve students at each stage, providing hands-on experiences from seed planting and crop rotation to watering and harvesting, ensuring a comprehensive and engaging learning journey. Each garden will host sustainably made works of art, by students and the community.

The Parent Resource Center will be the focal point of the program, hosting all classes, primarily on Fridays (AKA Farmer Fridays). There will be four gardens hosted at the center, utilizing a combination of raised beds and grow bags. Among these gardens, one will be dedicated to children and adorned with artwork created by the young participants. This specific garden will serve as the venue for weekly hands-on growing sessions and classes tailored for children and their accompanying guardians. We will also harvest and host a complimentary community farmers market, every Friday. All produce will be pre-harvested and bagged and available on a first-come basis. This will also be a designated day for most classes and clubs. Additionally, we will organize a lottery for an invitation to a farm-to-table brunch or dinner once the growing season peaks.
